Good s Cigar Factory.

Farmington has one of the largest igar factories south of St. Louis, By close attention to the principle of making high grade goods only, Philip Good has succeeded in building up an entensive business, and his cigars have a good sale in all the principal towns in Southeast Missouri. We understand that he will soon have ten or twelve eigar makers in his employ, and will in a short time move his factory to larger and better quarters in order to keep pace with his increasing business. He is a hustler and takes special pains in seeing that all Canada on February 7, 1862, and at orders are promptly filled and that all his death was 43 years, 7 months and which he started out to maintain.
